

CAN OUR EYES FOOL OUR TASTE BUDS?

by April Halprin Wayland

He loves the green drink
She prefers red.

Guess what?

They're both the same!
The taste is in their heads!

© 2014 April Halprin Wayland from The Poetry of Science by Sylvia Vardell and Janet Wong

Note: This poem was inspired by a psychology experiment that uses apple juice and red and green food coloring to examine whether people's perceptions of taste are influenced by their sight. Check out: Education.com/science-fair/article/can-eyes-fool-taste-buds/

THE POETRY OF SCIENCE

200+ poems
for kids who love Science, Technology,
Engineering, and Math

POMELOBOOKS.COM

